Prepared by SGC staff for the California Agricultural Land Equity Task Force

October 7, 2025

Subcommittees and working groups

In August 2025, the Task Force created subcommittees that would focus on the report goals and working groups that would address specific work tasks.

The resulting subcommittees were organized as follows:

- Goal 1, tribal stewardship and land return: Emily Burgueno and Lawrence Harlan
- Goal 2, preserved and thriving agricultural land: Nathaniel Brown, Dorian Payán, Thea Rittenhouse
- Goal 3, equitable land transition and acquisition: Irene de Barraicua, James Nakahara, Thea Rittenhouse, Doria Robinson, Qi Zhou
- Goal 4, secure land tenure: Irene de Barraicua, Ruth Dahlquist-Willard, James Nakahara, Liya Schwartzman
- Restorative land: Irene de Barraicua, Lawrence Harlan, Thea Rittenhouse, Doria Robinson
 - Note: This subcommittee drafted language that has been incorporated into the October 2025 Draft Report as Goal 2: Restorative land fund and education campaign. The Task Force will discuss this new language at the October meeting.

Working groups were assigned specific tasks, as identified below.

- The interagency review and coastal access working group (Emily Burgueno and Thea Rittenhouse) had two tasks: 1) Incorporating issues of Tribal coastal access and coastal/marine TEK into the recommendations (included in the October 2025 Draft Report) and 2) reviewing and incorporating interagency feedback. To facilitate review of the interagency feedback, SGC staff anonymized, consolidated, and synthesized feedback from state agencies and departments and shared feedback with the working group in two forms: 1) tracked changes with smaller proposed revisions focused on wording or structure, and 2) a list of questions and bigger proposed revisions for discussion. The working group made initial decisions about aligned revisions and tracked remaining questions for discussion at subcommittee meetings or the October Task Force meeting. Task Force members are welcome to view a more detailed list of interagency comments upon request.

- The community engagement working group (Nelson Hawkins and James Nakahara) was tasked with reviewing and incorporating input from community engagement sessions and nine public comment letters submitted by a combination of California Native American Tribes and community organizations. To facilitate review of the community input, SGC staff anonymized, consolidated, and synthesized all feedback and shared it with the working group in two forms: 1) tracked changes with smaller proposed revisions focused on wording or structure, and 2) a list of discussion topics for review and deliberation by working group members. The working group made decisions to incorporate certain revisions into the October Draft Report and requested that the full Task Force discuss a number of others before incorporating. Task Force members are welcome to view a more detailed list of public input and comments upon request.
- The urban agriculture working group drafted recommendations about enabling and supporting urban agriculture for review and discussion at the October meeting. The Task Force will decide whether and how to move this proposed language into the November Draft.
- The Goal 1 Subcommittee established a working group to complete the discussions started during the Goal 1 subcommittee meeting.

Revisions process

The subcommittees met virtually in September to review revisions from the August meeting and continue refining ideas. The working groups met with SGC staff during the same period to advance their assigned tasks.

As these groups met, SGC staff made revisions as directed by subcommittees and working groups and noted areas that needed further review or discussion at subsequent meetings.

In preparation for the October Task Force meeting, staff consolidated the report sections, revised language to clarify ideas and reduce redundancy, and flagged language in the October 2025 Draft Report in one of two ways, as directed by the Task Force: 1) new content for review, or 2) proposed language that needs further discussion before being incorporated into the clean version of the draft report. These flags, along with remaining discussion questions that are noted in the draft where relevant, will serve as the foundation for discussion at the October 2025 meeting.
